

June 7, 2010

Product End of Life (EOL) Notification

Source Technologies is committed to providing the highest quality products and services to our customers. All technology products eventually reach the end of their useful life and a business decision must be made to discontinue availability and maintenance. At Source Technologies, we view product EOL as a part of the life cycle that drives new technology and product innovation.

We recognize the impact this stage in a product's life can have on our customers. Therefore, we are providing you with a six-month notification of EOL on the following products:

Product(s):

ST9445 28k Cartridge
Description	Part Number
28K ST9445 MICR Toner Cartridge	STI-204025P-0X221591
28K ST9445 MICR Cartridge - ST Label	STI-204025-X221591

Please review this list of products carefully. We are requesting that you place a last-time buy for any of these products by December 15, 2010. Beyond that date, we will have limited capabilities to ensure product availability and delivery dates.

Newer technology often provides more productivity and greater efficiency in the same or similar applications as these older products. Source Technologies understands how integral this equipment is to your organization's overall productivity, which is why we maintain an aggressive new product introduction schedule. No matter when your organization needs secure printing capabilities you can be sure that you'll find the most productive and cost-effective solution.

Please contact Source Technologies at 1-800-922-8501 to discuss your organization's secure printing needs.

Sincerely,

Source Technologies